

Subject: Opportunities for School and District Leaders

The Art of Student Engagement:

Connecting Current Teaching Frameworks to Effective Student Engagement through the Arts

ArtsEd Washington, in partnership with the Association of Washington School Principals (AWSP), is offering an opportunity for principals, school directors and other educational leaders to participate in an interactive and collaborative session on student engagement and the related components of the new teacher evaluation frameworks.

When: Tuesday, May 13, 2014 from 3:00pm to 5:30pm (followed by 7:00 lecture)

Where: Seattle Children's Theatre at Seattle Center

What: Activities will include the sharing of current research and resources, connecting Common Core and Teaching Frameworks, demonstration and discussion of integrated arts lessons led by experienced teaching artists, participation in peer workgroups, and networking opportunities.

This event is a pre-workshop to the evening public lecture, CounterpARTS in Education: Andrea Allen Memorial Lecture Series featuring celebrated author and preeminent scholar on 21st century education, Dr. Yong Zhao (World Class Learners: Educating Creative and Entrepreneurial Students).

Learn more and register online here. Standard registration includes discounted entry to Dr. Yong Zhao evening lecture. Clock hours are available for both events.

Other Opportunities

- Preview Art Lessons in the Classroom (ALIC) at a Regional Demo Session – Aligned with Common Core State Standards in Math and English, ALIC includes step-by-step lesson plans that build skills sequentially by grade level, teacher trainings and ongoing online refresher support, museum resources from around the state, family letters, and assessment tools and criteria. Preview sessions coming up in North Bend and Bellingham. Read more and sign-up now.