North Kitsap, Federal Way honored for equity efforts

Pasco, Riverview and Crescent named as School Boards of the Year

The Pasco, Riverview and Crescent School Boards have been named the 2016 school Boards of the Year.

The awards were presented in Spokane Thursday during the Annual Conference of the Washington State School Directors' Association. The three boards were chosen from a field of 24 boards which had been named earlier as boards of distinction, the most ever.

“Each of these boards was exceptional at using data and other evidence in making good decisions for their schools,” said WSSDA Executive Director Tim Garchow. “Moreover they had a strong focus on student achievement and reducing opportunity gaps for disadvantaged students.”

In addition to the above three boards, the other school boards named as boards of distinction were: Anacortes, Auburn, Battle Ground, Bellingham, Camas, Clover Park, Eatonville, Everett, Evergreen, Federal Way, Highline, Issaquah, Kent, Lake Washington, Olympia, Pullman, Puyallup, Quincy, South Whidbey, Tacoma and Wapato.

In a separate awards program, the North Kitsap and Federal Way School Boards were honored for their efforts on behalf of diversity. Those awards were handed out by the Washington School Boards' Educational Foundation.

The annual Boards of Distinction program honors school boards that demonstrate effective use of the Washington School Board Standards. The standards, developed and adopted by WSSDA in 2009, promote research-based governance practices that lead to high levels of student and district achievement, and help close the opportunity gap.

Award applicants submitted essays and supporting evidence to demonstrate how they are putting the standards into practice. This year, applicants addressed the following:

- Being accountable and open to the public, and seeking divergent perspectives in its decision making.
- Adopting a collaboratively developed district plan focused on learning and achievement.
- Employing and supporting quality teachers, administrators and other staff, and providing for professional development.

Applicants also discussed specific decisions their boards had made and evidence on how they were working to help close the opportunity gap.

The applications were evaluated by an independent review panel.
