

Fall 2020 Admissions COVID-19 Statement for Washington's Baccalaureate Universities and College

March 30, 2020

Washington's public and not-for-profit, private four-year colleges and universities understand the extraordinary circumstances of COVID-19 and its impact on students and families. As Washington institutions, our first priority is contributing to the efforts to bolster the health and safety of our communities. As we do that, we support Washington's high school students as they maintain hope about their future, and continue to pursue their collegiate goals. Each campus is here to help students and their families navigate undergraduate admissions during these challenging times.

Our four-year institutions continue to collaborate across their sectors and in partnership with community and technical colleges and K-12 schools and districts. Our goal is to communicate the most recent policies and practices to ensure that students are successful in attaining their education and career goals.

We also recognize that the impact of COVID-19 on students, families and institutions is fluid and changing. We are committed to communicating, collaborating and engaging students, families and partners now for the Class of 2020 and in the future as we identify impacts to the Classes of 2021 and 2022.

For fall 2020 admissions, together we are:

- Moving all activities related to admitted student programs, transfer advising, prospective student events and campus visitations to a virtual experience/ platform, or we have made the decision to cancel events.
- Integrating flexibility into admissions processes to ease, to the extent possible, the disruption for fall 2020 applicants. Each university or college has institutional microsites dedicated to COVID-19 information, including details about fall 2020 admission decisions and deadlines.
- Recognizing that while students must satisfy high school graduation requirements and meet minimum college admission requirements for freshman, our institutions will not disadvantage 2020 fall applicants due to the pandemic's effects on education delivery.
- Identifying points of contact for each institution's Admissions Office for further information.
